Day 07: Visit Saint Petersburg

Breakfast in the hotel

Meeting with guide in the lobby

Excursion to Tsarskoe Selo

Another jewel in the crown of Saint Petersburg suburbs has the name of one of the greatest Russian poets Alexander Sergeyvich Pushkin and houses one of the most picturesque palace and park ensembles among the former residences of the Russian Emperors. This place gives you an opportunity to feel as a member of a royal family, to dive into the lives of the Empresses that occupied this place long time ago and to witness the marvelous beauty of the Amber Room single-handedly. Most of the visitors can hardly believe that almost everything inside the palace is a result of a careful restoration, which was finished less than 10 years ago. This also applies to the legendary Amber Room, the undisputable precious gem of the Catherine Palace, that went through many hardships throughout its history especially during World War II. But despite all the hardships the Catherine Palace and the Catherine Park still shine brightly, and nothing should stop you from visiting it.

Lunch at the local restaurant

St. Isaac Cathedral visit

One of the most famous and recognizable structures of St. Petersburg has always been and remains shrouded in mystery. From a mysterious death of the main architect to a strange connection between its construction and the fate of the Romanov house, this Cathedral is a unique place in every aspect. The cathedral's facades are decorated with sculptures and massive granite columns, while the interior is adorned with incredibly detailed mosaic icons, paintings and columns made of malachite and lapis lazuli.

The Church of the Savior on Spilled Blood

It differs a lot from other buildings in Saint Petersburg mainly due to its Russian style and the purpose of its construction. Church of the Savior on Spilled Blood was built in memory of Alexander II, who was assassinated in 1881. The church stands in the very place where a bomb was thrown into his carriage by a young man who opposed the Tsar's reforms. Alexander II was among the greatest Russian tsars, one of the main accomplishments of whom was the emancipation of serfs in 1861, which ended the de facto slavery of the Russian peasantry five years before the emancipation of slaves in the US. But not only history attracts people to this place. The look of the building is truly astonishing. Its five onion domes decorated and covered with jewel enamel can impress everyone. Its facade is similar to the one of St. Basil's Cathedral in Moscow and its peculiar multicolored exterior makes the cathedral stand out from St. Petersburg's typically strict architectural proportions and color combinations. Therefore, this sight is a must in North Venice of Russia.
